A Strange Character.

One evening, during the progress of the war of the Revolution in America, an old woman, living in the suburbs of Portsmouth, England, was summoned to her door by a knock, and, on opening it, found herself confronted with an old man, poorly dressed, with a bundle in his hand, such as travelers of his class frequently carried on their pedestrian tours.

"Madam," he said, respectfully, "can I get to lodge here to-night ?"

"It aren't my business to take lodgers," replied the mistress of the house, scanning the applicant closely by the light she held in her hand.

"I s'pose not, madam—but I'm a poor man, and want shelter somewhere."

"Well, why don't you go to an inn ? there's plenty of them in the town."

"Just because I'm poor, and can't afford to pay as much as they'd ask. I've got a little money, only a little, and I want to make it go as far as I can. I'm willing to pay you what's reasonable ; and then I'd save something, I'm thinking."

"Who are you ? where do you belong ? and what's your business ?"

"I'm called John the Painter, and that explains my business, and I belong anywhere where I happen to be. If you're not satisfied with this answer, why, good night to you, and I'll trudge on to try my chance somewhere else."

The old woman, who was poor herself, and lived alone, in a small, crazy, old house, thought she might as well gather in a few pennies, by keeping the traveler, as to let some of her neighbor do it ; and so, after a little reflection, she rejoined :

"I s'pose I can keep you, if, as you say, you'll pay me what's reasonable—for, like you, I'm poor, too, and can't afford to do it for nothing. Come in and sit down—you look tired. I s'pose you want supper ?"

"Yes, if you please," said John the Painter, as he walked in and took a seat near the fire, upon which he fixed his eyes somewhat abstractly, while he carelessly threw his hat and bundle down beside him.

For the half hour that the mistress of the house was busied in preparing his supper, the traveler seemed deeply absorbed in matters of his own, and scarcely once took his eyes from the fire, or changed his position. At first the old woman glanced at him furtively, with an air of ordinary curiosity, and occasionally ventured some common-place remark ; but finding he made no reply, took no notice of her presence, and even seemed not to hear her, she became bolder in her manner, and two or three times stopped near him, staring directly into his face.

He appeared to be between sixty and seventy years of age, had gray hair, a stern, pinched face, a large nose, thin, compressed lips, and cold, staring eyes, the expression of which was far from pleasing, and which was not redeemed by anything else in his countenance. In fact he seemed like a man not at peace with himself or the world, and who was either then brooding over some committed crime or some contemplated revenge.

"There, sir, your supper's ready, if you want it," at length spoke the mistress, in a half querulous tone, as if offended that none of her previous remarks had been noticed.

The strange traveler took no heed, but still sat staring at the fire.

"I say your suppeer's ready man ; and, if you want it hot, you'd better eat it before it gets cold ; for I'll not warm it again, this blessed night, for you nor nobody else !" cried the hostess, in an angry tone.

Stil no movement—no response—no indication that her unmusical voice was not even heard.

"I say !" she half screamed in his ear, at the same time taking hold of his arm rather rudely.

Like a ball he sprung from his seat and confronted her, his eyes looking wild and wicked.

"Good Lord, man, don't scare a body so !" exclaimed the woman, taking two or three quick, backward steps, and turning pale with fright. "I'm only trying to make you understand your supper's ready."

The stranger glared at her for a moment, then at the table, and then seemed to comprehend the true facts.

"Oh ! ah ! yes !" he replied, with a grim smile. "I beg your pardon !—it's likely you've spoke to me before !"

"It's like I have, a half-a-dozen times, just as I might have talked to a post !"

"Yes, madam, I see—I thank you—I beg your pardon ! I was busy thinking, and forgot where I was."

He then took his seat at the table, and, while eating his supper, tried to make amends for his former impolite abstraction, by making himself as agreeable as possible. He succeeded so well in his efforts to please, that the mistress of the house became quite charmed with his conversation, and began to think he might possibly be an angel in disguse—or, in other words, a rich and eccentric old gentleman, whom good fortune had thrown in her way for a future husband or possible legacy.

But these bright hopes did not have a long duration—for scarcely had the stranger finished his meal, than he suddenly grew cold, taciturn and abstracted, and presently asked to be shown to his bed. If he slept soundly, the mistress of the house did not—for after the dispelling of the bright fancy of future wealth, she began to fear that the stranger might take a notion to shorten her life before morning, and so lay awake and listened, and trembled at every unusual sound.

The night, however, passed off without any disturbance ; and at daylight the old man rose and went out, leaving his bundle behind. Scarcely was he out of sight before the curiosity of his hostess set her to work to see if she could gather any new facts.

If he had left a trunk, instead of a bundle, she would probably have found a way to open and rummage it ; but as it was, she had only to untie an old, dirty handkerchief ; and there, before her eyes, lay a shirt, a pair of stockings, and a tin box—a curious-looking tin box—for which, unfortunately for her ease of mind, she could not imagine any use. She held it up, turned it over, shook it, and tried her best to see into it, and conjecture for what purpose it was made ; but not being able to do this, she at length resigned it with a sigh, rolled it up as she had found it, tied up the bundle, and went about her own business.

John the Painter came back to a late breakfast, and then settled with the curious widow for all he had of her, at the same time remarking that he might possibly remain in town another night, in which case he hoped he would be permitted to return and pass another night under her hospitable roof.

To this she now readily gave consent, again thinking him a man of some consequence.

He then inquired where he could find a tinman ; and receiving the proper direction to one, he bade her good-bye and started off, this time taking his bundle with him.

Toward evening, however, he came back, and said he had concluded to stay another night in town, and wanted supper, which the widow again prepared for him.

He ate this meal in silence, and soon after made some excuse to go out.

He was absent some two or three hours ; and when he returned he reported that there was quite a large fire, which he understood to be in some government buildings that he feared would be consumed.

"But blessed are the poor !" he added, with a strange kind of a laugh, which his hostess afterwards recalled ; "for they have nothing to lose."

He then went to bed, and appeared to rest well through the night ; but rose at the first streak of day, paid his reckoning, and took his departure, saying he should not return.

On going out, an hour or two later, the widow was surprised to see the usually quiet town of Portsmouth in great commotion—groups collected here and there, as if discussing some remarkable event—and mounted men, both military and civil, dashing hither and yon, all seeming hurried and anxious. On every blank wall, too, there was a flaming placard, announcing the startling fact that a hundred thousand pounds worth of naval stores had been destroyed by incendiarism, that secret emissaries of the enemy were supposed to be in their midst, offering large rewards for the arrest and conviction of the guilty, and ordering all citizens to report to the nearest magistrate the names of all strangers who had lodged in town during the last three days, and more especially the last night.

As soon as the widow fairly understood this matter, she hastened to give in the name of John the Painter, with a description of his person, manner, conversation, and, withal, his curious tin box and visit to the tinman. The latter was immediately sent for, and deposed that he had made a top for the box, which seemed to be a curious affair, the use of which he did not know.

All this fully fixed suspicion upon the eccentric old man ; and as it was supposed he had been dispatched from town to some distant point by relays of horses, horsemen were sent off in every direction in hot pursuit, with orders to arrest every mounted person they might find.

Somewhere about mid-day John the Painter was overtaken, on the regular London road, by one of these mounted parties, who stopped and inquired if any one had passed him on horseback that morning.

"Not a soul," replied the old man.

"How long have you been on this road ?"

"Since daylight. Why ?"

"There was a great destruction of naval stores in Portsmouth last night, the work of some infernal incendiary, and we want to catch the villain."

"Well, do you s'pose he fled on horseback ?" said the old man, with a peculiar twinkle of his eyes.

"Undoubtedly."

"Well, he didn't—he went on foot."

"Ha ! how do you know ?"

"Because I know the man who did it."

"Who is he ? Where is he ?" demanded the leader, excitedly.

"He's callled John the Painter, and he's here. I'm the man."

"Take care how you jest, old fellow!" returned the other, warningly ; "it might get you into trouble."

"If you can't understand plain English, you're as big a fool as your royal master is a knave !" said the old man, with an angry sneer. "I tell you I'm the man that did it—and I'm the man that glories in it—and if you don't believe me, ride on and hunt till you get sense !"

The horsemen now thought the old man was crazy ; but, after what he had said, they concluded to arrest him and take him back to Portsmouth. They did so, and there he was confronted with the old woman and the tinman, both of whom identified him as the mysterious stranger they had described.

He was then asked to make a confession and name his accomplices.

"I never had any accomplices," said the old man, indignantly. "What I did, I did alone, and I glory in it. I once lived peaceably and happily in the quiet little town of Amboy, State of New Jersey, far away over the great waters ; and I'd been living peaceable there to-day, if the minions of King George had let me alone ; but they came there, and insulted and abused me, and burned down my dwelling, and cast me adrift to shift for myself—and then I took a solemn oath I'd be revenged. It was my first intention to kill your vile king ; and I'd have done it, only for Mr. Deane, our secret minister at Paris, who convinced me it was wrong to slay the Lord's Anointed ; and so, as the next best thing, I determined to burn as much of the king's property as I could. I came direct from Paris here, and you know what I've done since I got here, and that's enough. I know you'll hang me for it—but I don't care for that. I'm a poor, friendless, old man, made sick of life by your accursed deeds ; and now, that I've got my revenge, I don't care how soon I die.

They sent the old man, under guard, to London, where he underwent a close examination before the Privy Council—but no new facts were elicted. He strictly adhered to his first statement ; and, mainly on his own evidence, or confession, he was tried, convicted, sentenced, and hanged.

We have only to add, that the foregoing may be relied on as strictly authentic.

A FLYING TRIP.

Mrs Acker, and yours, until my funeral, expected to have gone to the city last week, but we didn't get there for the following pesky reasons :

We were somewhat late for the train, owing, so says Mrs. N. Y. A., to my inborn carelessness ; but I claim I contracted the habit about the time my wife became the possessor of a marriage certificate.

Mrs. Acker was hustling around, putting on her duds, when she happened to think that she wanted a pair of gloves which had been left up-stairs, and I must scoot up-stairs and get the desired hand-squeezers.

The going up was not as long in being accomplished as the construction of the Washington monument, but the downward motion ! Scissors and shears ! Wasn't that expedited ? But I hardly think I came down easy. And now that I come to reflect over the matter, I know I did not. No, siree, I didn't. I came down hard, very, very hard on the floor at the foot of the stairs, and there I sat investigating the lump on the rear of my cranium, the abrasion on my elbow, and—and—but I'll not enumerate. I received a souvenir from each step of the stairs.

The final object upon which I bumped was my hat, and it being what is commonly designated as a stove-pipe, of course it was ruined beyond a possibility of resurection.

Before serenity reigned again the hackman had nearly worn out the clapper of the door-bell, trying to make the Acker family understand that it was time to adjourn the debating society.

We shook things up lively, and accompanied by a hat out of the rag-bag, tumbled into the hack and rattled away to the depot, where we arrived just in time to catch on the rear platform as the train was moving out.

Mrs. Acker scrambled up first, and took some seconds at it, and left me grasping the rail, making frantic efforts to keep up with the accelerated motion of the car, while about every rod I would slap one foot down upon the ground with the seeming result of driving my heel up through the spinal column, and taken up lodgings in the nape of my neck.

Thus I went bravely on emulating the antics of the mythical flying-eater of sauer-krout.

"Hi ! whoop ! Go in, old flying-machine, I'll bet on yer," shouted an urchin, who was standing by the side of the track, while a mongrel cur came tearing, yelping out, thinking my coat tails were a flock of geese, which he was in duty bound to frighten off.

The cars at length gained such headway that my feet only touched the ground once in every three and nine-tenths rods, my hair was letting go of the scalp, and I breathed by jerks, when the brakeman came out and hauled me upon the platform.

Just after I had succeeded in regaining my breath, out rushed the conductor followed by Mrs. Acker.

The conductor shouted :

"Are you this woman's husband ?"

"I'll be dod slivered if I am not : that is, what there is left of me."

"Well, then, gim'e your tickets."

"Haven't got any. I have just been hauled on this gosh slammed car, without time to say Jack Robinson, let alone buying tickets."

"Then I must have the money."

I shoved my hand in my pocket and pulled out my—keys.

In my hurry I had left my purse at home.

I jumped upon my feet, and stared at Brassbuttons, who said :

"Come, come—tickets or money."

"Well darn my looks if I've got either !

"Then you must get off at the next station."

"What !" shrieked I, in amazement. "You presume to pretend that you are going to put me off this train—me, Nimble Yankee Acker, Esq.?"

"Yes !"

"Great Scott ! Why, sir, I'm a writer—an author, sir !"

"Don't know you. Come down with the money or off you go."

"Whew but——"

"Come—the money. I haven't time to be fooling with a hatless lunatic," cried Brassbuttons, as he slammed the door, through which issued the titters of the passengers.

"Hatless !" I clapped my hand on my forehead. "Good heavens, I am disgraced !"

I subsided.

We got off at the next station, and I looked around for a conveyance to take us home, but no one would let me have one without the money.

Finally I came across a man who compromised by driving us home, making me promise to pay him immediately after arriving, and let him wear my nickel-plated watch until he had the lucre in has paw.

I didn't feel like pushing the experiment further, and therefore did not try to buy a hat, but made a turban of Mrs. Acker's shawl.

We met several parties on the raod, and were often met with the exclamation:

"Gypsies, by hookey."

Mrs. Acker declares she will not be good enough to go to church again until after next communion Sunday.

I am now convalescing.

Pearls of Thought.

Lost time is never found again.

The future destiny of the child is always the work of the mother.

He is rich who is satisfied with what he hath—whether it be little or much.

Sudden expectations, which kindle the mind to a fever, sometimes chill the heart to a frost.

How long, how slow, and how inscrutable can be one man's fate against another's finding out !

Do nothing by halves. If a thing is right, do it boldly and well ; If it be wrong, leave it undone.

Good resolutions are like horses. The first cost is an item of less importance than the keeping.

In judging of others, a man often erreth ; but in examining himself, always laboreth fruitfully.

Truth—the open, bold, honest truth—is always the safest, for everyone, in any and all circumstances.

A man in Terre Haute, who recently secured a divorce from his wife, now employs her as his servant girl, and she has more money and better clothes than when she was his wife. If some men would treat their wives as they do their servant girls there would be fewer divorces.—Texas Siftings.

"HACK, SIR !"

Last week I went to the city.

There is nothing in that assertion than is very strange, nor anything which would apparently make a foundation for a novel; but, you see, it is not so much the going or coming that is so much on my mind, but the goshsilvered occurences after I reached there that are disturbing my equinanimity.

I was there—that's sufficient—and the doggoned hackmen seemed to know it before I did, for about a thou—well something less than a hundred of them pointed their long, dirty fingers at me, as soon as I tumbled from the train, and yelled, "Hack, hack, sir!" until I wished some one had hacked their tongues off.

One grabbed me by the shoulder and another pulled my sleeve, while a third tugged away at my valise, as I shouted:

"Scissors and shears ! What do you want, you swiveled-tongued donkeys? If you don't let go of me, I'll thrash the whole boodle of you."

I slung the back of my hand across one ugly mug and kicked the shins of the fellow who was clawing at my shoulder, while the snoozer who clung to my bag yelled:

"That's right ; give it ter em'—oh, ouch !"

And he doubled up and grabbed himself where his yituals are digested, for that's where my number ten stopped.

I was in for it.

The whole crowd now rushed at me.

I caught my toe on the curb, tumbled down, upset three hackmen, they upset more of their ilk, legs, arms, hats, shoes, fists, hair, cuss words, and so forth, were in utter confusion.

The police rushed up, thinking a bomb had exploded, and I sprang to my feet and started on a run as though I was a chicken thief, with a bob-tailed bulldog after a taste of my pantaloons.

Some one cried:

"Stop thief !"

The police saw my legs giving fail and came rolling after me.

I whooped her up lively and seemed in a fair way to get down a side alley, when a young street arab bobbed from around the corner and I tumbled over him, rolled into the gutter, he yelled, "Murder! oh, bang dash it !" some one rushed out of a side door, wiping beer from his vest, and screeching:

"Is there another Texas steer loose ? W-where is he?"

The boy said he guessed so, and that he was killed.

I got up out of the gutter, rubbed the mud out of my eyes with one hand, held the rent in my pantaloons together with the other, backed up against a brick wall, waited for the policemen while my ire rose to a boiling heat.

I gritted my teeth, and I may as well remark here that I had no trouble in doing so, for the dirt in my mouth made the process a very sasy one.

In about the flop of a fly's wing, up rushed a whole squad of blue-coats, puffing and blowing like fire engines.

One grabbed me and tried to drag me away, but I dropped down, pulled him with me, others came up and caught on, I kicked one in the mouth, another bent his head down under the persuasion of my hand in his hair, while the third gave me the loan of his ear for a handle, then yelled because it hurt him.

At length I was at the station-house and we all took a breathing spell.

The Justice came in and took his seat.

"What's the charge against this man?"

"Riot," howled the policeman whose ear had acted as a handle.

"Disorderly conduct," yelled the one whose mouth had collided with my toe.

"A crank," said the one whose hair my fingers had mussed.

"Prisoner," said the Justice, "you hear the charges. What have you to say?"

"Give me a pin," said I, and the Judge leaned over and whispered to a reporter:

"A crank, by hookey!" then turning to me: "What do you want of a pin ?"

"My pantaloons are torn and I want to pin them up."

After I had finished the operation, I said:

"Your Honor, I deny all the charges. I don't want a lawyer. I don't want to make a speech, and I'll be gosh darned if I want to ride in a hack. Because I refused to ride, the hackmen, and yours until the hearse carries me off, had a little muss. I got away from them and run, the police followed and caught me, and then there was another ruption. I was captured, and here I am."

"I am neither a crank, a riotor, nor a disorderly person. I am not drunk, a canibal or a Texas steer. I am not the Governor, Mayor nor a wild Indian.

I am neither Conklin, or Cameron, nor Barnum's pet monkey. But, holy smoke, I'm mad—geewhittaker, I should say I was.

"If I had half a show I'd wallop the whole policeforce and then sail into the hackmen and stand them all on their heads, but I havn't half a chance, so if you want to fine me, all right I'll pay it. But don't you lock me up, Judge. If you do I'll—I'll—stay there till I'm let out.

"That's all, Judge, pass down your sentence."

"I'll have to fine you five dollars."

I paid the fine, and don't you make any mistakes about what followed.

I dusted out of that burg as fast as the laws of locomotion would permit, and the rent in my pantaloons justify.

After I was seated in the car the conductor came around, took a survey of me and wanted to know if I had been in a walking match or a boiler explosion.

When I reached home Mrs. Acker met me in the hall with a broomstick and screeched:

"Get out of here you dirty tramp !" and it was some time before she was fully convinced that I was Nimble Yankee Acker, Esq.

HUMOROUS.

A bird raiser says that canaries can be trained to sing airs as well as a human being. If they can't be trained to sing airs better than some human beings 'twere better to allow them to remain untrained.

A young man who had been going with a Vermont girl for some time, and he made her several presents, asked her one day if she would accept a puppy. He was awful mad when she replied that her mother had told her if he proposed to her to say no.

An old Detroit justice of the peace says that out of some 4,000 decisions he has never yet rendered one that has satisfied both parties. He has finally got tired of trying.—Detroit Free Press.

A disputatious Hibernian who had been contending that a mule was a nobler animal than a horse, said that a mule had once saved him from drowning. 'How was that, Paddy?' asked one of the bystanders. 'Faith, he gave me such a lick with his hind leg that he landed me on the other side o' the canawl instead o' in it.'

The story comes from Paris that a lady who attended four churches in one day missed her umbrella on returning home. She immediately revisited all four churches and found her umbrella in the last one. When the umbrella was handed to her she thankfully said to the sexton: 'The people at this church are much more honest than those at the others.'

Sorakichi Against Six.

The Tale That is Told of his Skillful Defence of his Queue.

Matsada Sorakichi, the noted Japanese wrestler, is a faithful attendant at Sunday school, and goes every night to the mission school in New York. He is not a declared Christian, but he wishes to learn the language, and likes to be where English is spoken. He is short of stature, and in his street dress gives no indication of unusual strength, except that he has an extraordinary width of chest. Several times, in going to the mission from his lodgings in Walter St, he has been hailed in disrespectful terms by persons standing on the corners. At first he took these satalutions as complimentary, and smiled and bowed politely in acknowledgement, but after being a little in attendance at the mission he learned that Pigtail and Flat-nose John are considered odious terms.

One Saturday night, as he was returning to his lodging, six young men disposed themselves across the sidewalk so as to prevent his passing, called him Flat-nose John, and told him that he must either sing or fight. For a moment the wrestler stood confused, and he would have stepped around the gang, but one of them just tilted his hat over his eyes and attempted to catch hold of his short queue.

There came a grand disillusion. Sorakichi says, as nearly as his speech can be rendered: "Of course when dey is try to take my tail, I is hit em all." The Japanese, who is quick as a cat, and who can handle an ordinary man as a mother does her baby, made short work of it. For a moment the air thereabouts was full of corner loafers, and then the insulted champion, finding there was no one left who cared to hear him sing, passed on to his boarding house at 383 Walter street.

In about twenty minutes the defeated six, with a dozen of their friends, appeared in the hall below, and dared "the Chinee" to come down. Sorakichi would have accepted the invitation, and he started down the stairs "to hit them all again," but his landlord, more versed in the ways of New York, deterred him, and taking a revolver in one hand and a kettle of hot water in the other, went out on the landing to parley. The enemy clustered around the foot of the stairs, and the landlord poured the hot water over them, at the same time discharging several barrels of his revolver against the wall. The enemy then went away.—N. Y. Sun.

P. GRAY MEEK, Chairman

THE Republican State convention having been held at Harrisburg last Wednesday resulted in the instruction of the six delegates-at-large for Blaine and no more. Two of them even are suspected of going back on their instructions when it comes to a point at Chicago, while the district delegates are allowed to do as they please. Don't think there is very much of a Blaine boom in that kind of work.

Gen. C. S. Osborne, Luzerne, was nominated for Congressman-at-large.

BLAINE and Lincoln, Edmunds and Lincoln, Grant and Lincoln, Arthur and Lincoln, Hanley and Lincoln, Sherman and Lincoln are the combinations talked of by Republican politicians. They would go to show that Lincoln is positively billed for the vice-presidency.

WE see by the Clinton Democrat that Hon. S. R. Peale enters the canvass as a candidate for congress from this district. The article announcing the fact is subscribed by CLINTON and winds up with the following paragraphs:

Mr. Peale has been a Democrat for not less than thirty years and his devotion to the principles of the party is known to be fervent and sincere. He is a lawyer of recognized abitity; possesses legislative experience and will, we know, never be guilty of anything that may bring reproach upon himself or his constituents.

Mr. Peale is a man who combines administrative, executive and legislative abilities that few men possess. This, together with his high reputation for honesty, integrity and ability, constitutes him one of the most popular men in this Congressional district. He would make a representative to the National Congress, his constituents would be proud of. We cordially commend him to the people of the several counties. That he will carry Clinton by a large majority without opposition we do not doubt. CLINTON.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 23, 1884.

From this standpoint, the portentous Arthur boom appears to be assuming the character of a Blaine stampede of very considerable proportions, particularly in the President's own State where the whole stalwart army seems to have broken ranks and completely forsaken their old commander. In the New York deal the President finds his most discomforting surprise, because he had counted upon the aid of a class of men in nearly every Congressional district, whose lives had been devoted, as his own had been, to the manipulation of the machine politics of the State. But there was ex-Gov. Cornell with his sores of 1884 still unhealed, and there was Mr. Conkling, who is out of politics only in the sense of repaying old scores, and whose hand is seen in all of this anti Arthur work, and there was, aboye all, the apprehensions among the leaders of the party that the Democrats could not nominate a candidate who would not easily put New York in the Democratic column next fall as against Arthur. That Arthur has been unfortunate in the distribution of patronage in New York, goes without saying. His appointees in New York city were selected for him simply from the want of courage to select them for himself. The result was a class of officials that care as little for Mr. Arthur's preferment now, as he cared for them when he was anxious to give their places to those in whom he had confidence. Upon the idea that honest men get their dues when rogues fall out, the disturbances in this once happy Republican family will as surely give the Empire State to the Democracy next fall, as that Vermont will go the other way.

Mr. Morrison has got his tariff bill before the House and in Committee of the Whole, in spite of the predictions of his failure. His opening speech was a sound, common-sense presentation of its leading features, spiced with some historical data touching the manner in which tariff commission and tariff measures in past Congresses had been in the interest of the manufacturers and capitalists of the country. An analysis of the vote by which the bill was taken up for consideration, develops a pretty strong indication that the contest over it will be both long and exciting. It is known that while quite a number of Democrats who voted to take up the bill will finally vote against it, there are also a number of the 39 Democrats who voted against its consideration will ultimately record their votes for it.

It seems that Mr. Bob Lincoln's aspirations are a trifle higher than those which satisfied his boss four years ago, and the fellow is playing double for all he is worth with both Logan and Arthur. While he sends dispatches to Chicago announcing that his name cannot be used while he is in Mr. Arthur's cabinet, he is knifing Arthur in the East and throttling Logan in the West upon every possible occasion. It cannot be that the President is not cognizent of this dublicity on the part of a member of his cabinet, but what is he going to do about it if he is? If he should kick him out, what would become of the prestige of that name under which the son of his father got into the cabinet, and how many would view it as an insult to the memory of Garfield? From the time that Lincoln was taken up and carried into the office of town supervisor of Chicago ten years ago, upon this sentimental sort of politics, has been afflicted by the political bighead in its worst form, and it shows the possibilities of American politics including its civil service reform, when such a man as Robert Lincoln can be seriously spoken of in connection with the highest political office in the world.

Rioting at the Mines.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., April 21.—A fight between Hungarians, Poles and other nationalities, in which several hundred persons took part, occured yesterday afternoon, near the borough limits. Revolvers were freely used, and one Hungarian was shot in the leg. The prompt action of the police averted a more serious riot. Several rioters were arrested.

The Millheim Journal.

THURSDAY, APRIL 24TH, 1884.

Published by R. A. BUMILLER.

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

—Some of our people are busy gardening.

—Town was alive with people last Saturday.

—Farmers about here are putting in full time.

—Miss Katie Ulrich is lying ill at her father's house.

—Constable N. Shannon sports a pretty little pony.

—E. W. Mauck has a sore throat. Sorry for you, Ed.

—We noticed Rev. C. F. Gephart of New Berlin in town this week.

—Mr. James Gephart was visiting Mr. & Mrs. Schoch at New Berlin.

—The "White Elephant" is one of the prominent topics of the day.

—W. W. Bower, of Aaronsburg, was among our callers, last Saturday.

—We learn that Mr. Harvey Hauck is confined to the house by sickness.

—The new German Silver E flat Cornet for the band has come. It's a daisy.

—B. F. Kister and J. F. Harter enclosed their back yards with new fences.

—The warm evenings—few and far between—are enjoyed by our quoit pitchers.

—The professional card of Dr. Geo. L. Lee, of Madisonburg, appears in another column.

—Mr. & Mrs. Shoop, from Centre Hall were the guests of Mrs. S. D. Musser last week.

—Rev. Yearick is absent attending the West Susquehanna Classis of the Reformed Church.

—Hon. W. K. Alexander, the new Linden Hall merchant, was in town a few days this week.

—Our grain fields look promising and with a favorable season a large crop may be expected.

—Mr. J W Henney & Samuel Shoop, from Centre Hall, were seen on our streets, last week.

—A lot of horses were taken to Coburn station on Monday by one of the New York horse dealers.

—Druggist Eisenhuth reports a rapidly growing demand for McDonald's Celebrated Worm Powders.

—Our Sunday schools and churches were unusually well attended last Sunday. Certainly a good sign.

—Mrs. Susan Harter is absent this week, visiting friends at Harrisburg. Hope she will enjoy her trip.

—Preparations are being made for the erection of another house on Water street. S. G. Clark is to occupy it.

—We are glad to state that Mrs. A. Walter, whose illness we mentioned in last week's issue, is slowly convalescing.

—Our young friend, Mr. E. E. Bressler, who taught school at Coburn during the winter left for Ohio last Thursday.

—Mr. W. T. Mauck was off on a business trip to Williamsport last week. He returned safely, but a little travel-tainted.

—Judging by the number of logs piled up at Hen. Swartz's saw mill, he will do an immense amount of sawing this spring.

—Mr. Wm. G. Ulrich will work for his brother Samuel, at Coburn this summer. They make a strong pair for farm work.

—Phil. D. Stover formerly of Laurelton orders his JOURNAL to be sent to Millinburg, which seems to be his new place of residence.

—Some remarkable cures in this vicinity of long continued and obstinate deases are atributed to McDonald's Blood Purifier.

—Mr. Sam. Winters, who is staying with his daughter, Mrs. Michael Ulrich, has been unwell for some time. Old age is telling on him.

—Miss Sadie Adams, oldest daughter of J. W. Adams, who is staying at Lewisburg came home on Saturday on a visit to her parents.

—The council proceedings appearing in another column give our citizens the pleasant promise of several long-wished-for improvements.

—Miss Katie Dinges had her barn repaired this week. The roof of the building had been crushed in by the weight of the snow some time ago.

—Lewis Frain, a son of landlord Frain, suffers from the effects of a splinter, which entered his left eye some time ago, while splitting wood.

FISH, FISH.—Fat Family Mackere at $2.50 a quarter Barrel.

DINGES, VONADA & CO.,
Coburn, Pa.

FOR SALE.—A new, two-seated Spring Wagon, one new Truck Wagon, will be sold at a bargain. Inquire at this office. tf

—Mr. L. Olie Meek places us under obligations to him by a complimentary copy of the Congressional Directory. It is a handsomely bound book and contains interesting reading.

—The roads are dry and dusty at present. So are the eyes of travelers who happen to be out on windy days.

FOR SALE.—About one thousand feet of Dry Linn Boards. Inquire at this office. W. tf.

—Some of our sidewalks are in a dangerous condition and might cause some broken limbs. They should receive the immediate attention of the town council.

—We understand that a speaker has been engaged, several posts have been invited and the service of our band procured for the approaching decoration day.

—W. N. Auman adorned the front of his premises on Penn Street by a neat and substantial picket fence. Bob Kreamer built it with true mechanical skill.

—Very fine photographs are displayed by Messrs. Geo. Buck & Bro. at their gallery on Main street. They give sufficient testimony of their artistic merit.

—F. D. Luse's glaring fence advertisements of the Miller organ, for which instrument he has the agency, can be noticed at all conspicuous points in this neighborhood.

—The plasterers are through with Sam. Weiser's house on the new street and in a few weeks it will be ready for Samuel to occupy it. We see he is itching to get in.

—Mr. F. O. Hosterman, who is traveling for Jamy & Andrews, gave us a call on Saturday and handed us the name of a new subscriber. Call again, you are always welcome.

—Mr. C. K. Sober will sell at public sale on Saturday, the 26th of April, at Sober's landing near Zerby's station in Penn township, five good Work Mules. Sale at 10½ o'clock, A. M.

—The barn on John Reighard's farm south of town is receiving several coats of paint, which will give it a clean and fresh appearance in its elevated location. W. T. Mauck & Son do the work.

—This afternoon at 1 o'clock the sale of a valuable farm and several acres of building lots in the borough, being the property of John Keen, deceased, will take place at the late residence of decedent.

—The money which had been taken from Wm. Maize last week, has turned up again. It had been hid away by one of his hands as a joke. The joke caused William some uneasiness at the time.

—Mr. Gilbert, the Singer sewing machine agent from Bellefonte lost a valuable horse last week. Shortly after his return from a trip to Brushvalley the animal died in the stable of Frain's hotel.

—H. H. Tomlinson went to Philadelphia and New York last Monday to purchase a large stock of spring goods. After his return you may look out for anything and everything desirable in the market.

—James Lenker, of Aaronsburg, who left with our western bound party a few weeks ago, writes home that he would locate in that part of Nebraska, if it was not so cold. He is pleased with the country otherwise.

—Mr. J. C. Harper was in town this week visiting his invalid sister, Mrs. Geo. W. Stoyer. He gave us the sad inteligence that she suffers considerable pain and that her prospects for recovery are not very bright.

—We are reliably informed that Mr. E. Brumgard and Mr. E. Frank, who left this place a few weeks ago for Dakota are going into the mercantile business at Mitchell, Dakota. Hope they will meet with abundant success.

—Robert Smith has the contract to build the Reformed church at Aaronsburg, the cost of which will be $7000. We understand it will be built exclusively by the Reformed people, the Presbyterians having no part in it.

—Our new stock is now coming in and prices are surprisingly low. All should call and see before the assortment is broken.

DINGES, VONADA & CO.,
Coburn, Pa.

—Rev. G. P. R. Sarvis, the new minister of our Methodist friends, delivered his first sermon in the M. E. church at this place on Sunday evening to a large audience. He preached ably and eloquently and made a very favorable impression on his hearers.

—A string of seven two-horse wagons, all loaded with phosphate passed through town on Saturday on their way to Brush Valley. They say it's a healthy smell—but for our part we would sooner take less smell and take the risk of getting better.

—They are busy as bees at Confer's steam planing mill on Mill street. If only the nasty smoke issuing from their stack would turn towards the fields, instead of filling the yards of the neighboring premises. It makes one think of the smoky iron city.

FOR SALE CHEAP.—A new 2½ Excelsior Printing Press, with three fonts of type, cases, &c., complete; a Prize Demas Lathe and Scroll Saw, with Circular Saw Attachment; a Muzzle-Loading Rifle, good as new, 90 balls to lb. No 1 Shooter. Wishing to turn these articles into cash at once, I offer them for sale at very low prices. For further particulars address or call on

GEO. W. VONADA,
3t Madisonburg, Pa.

MUSIC SCHOOL.—The 24th session of the Musical College at Freeburgh, Pa. will begin on Tuesday morning, April 29th, and will continue six weeks. For circular address

F. C. MOYER,
Musical Director.

—Flyers liberally distributed over town announce that S. G. Clark is going into business, expecting to keep on hand or make to order, in Confer's Planing Mill, Cultivators, Harrows, Bob Sleds, Wagon Boxes, &c. He guarantees his work and solicits a fair patronage.

—Mr. John Kerstetter, Jr., still makes a business of doing special jobs at carpentry. John is really an expert at the business and has large experince, both in making out plans, specifications and drawings, as well as a practical workman. People who entrust their work into his hands can safely rely on having it done in best style at the lowest prices. tf

—Last week's Watchman has the following item among its personal mentionings:

Mr. Samuel Foust, of Miles township, has quite recovered from the effect of his late accident at Milton, and is again lively as a cricket. He celebrated his fiftieth birthday on Sunday last, and has an idea that he will celebrate his fifty-first in the sheriff's office in Bellefonte.

—Next meeting of the Musical Association in the chapel of the Luth. church. Persons who received invitations are urged to join at once, as from the first of May the society will not admit any members until after their first entertainment, the work of the class having advanced too far for newcomers.

—The cold weather and ground are not very favorable to the planting of the garden makers. Better wait for warmer days and you will not run the risk of having your seeds rot and the little onions checked. Things sown later and in warmer weather will be as early as those having been planted in the cold ground.

—West Susquehanna Classis of the Reformed Church convened at Lewisburg, Pa., yesterday, April 23rd. Rev. N. J. Miller, pastor of the Rebersburg Reformed charge is in attendance. Instead of holding services next Sunday at Grace Church, Rebersburg and Madisonburg, the announcements are changed as follows: Grace Church, May 4th at 10. A. M.; Rebersburg, May 11th, at 10. A. M.; Madisonburg, May 11th, at 7. P. M.

—The select school in the Academy at Aaronsburg has opened yesterday under the tutorship of Mr. S. C. Stover, a student of the Franklin Marchall College, Lancaster, Pa. The class numbers about twenty pupils. Mr. Stover is a young gentleman of sufficent education to make the term of said school a very beneficial one to his scholars, and should therefore receive the strong support of the public.

—On Tuesday, May 6th, 1884 the school directors of the county will meet in the Court House in Bellefonte for the purpose of chosing a Superintendent of Common Schools of the county for the ensuing term.

Prof. D. M. Wolf is a candidate for re-election and as he is a gentleman of ability and excellent qualities, we have no doubt he will receive, as he deserves, the office for another term.

—The undersigned would hereby thank his many friends and neighbors at Coburn for their confidence and kind regard, which they have shown him during his term of teaching at that place and, having concluded to make the West his future home, bids them a friendly farewell, hoping to hear from them occasionally.

Respectfully
E. E. BRESSLER.

—McDonald's improved Liver Pill are the most reliable and satisfactory Liver Pills made. Many Doctors buy them by the thousand for use in their daily practice. No higher mark of confidence could be quoted. We do not know any proprietary medicine that stands so high in the estimation of the medical profession as McDonald's improved Liver Pills. Dissatisfied buyers can have their money refunded. Sold by J. Eisenhuth, Millheim, Pa.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.—At a special meeting of the borough council of Millheim, last Monday evening the committee on streets & alleys made a report in regard to several crossings and boardwalks necessary in the borough, which report was adopted and the following constructions voted to be made:

Stone Alley crossing, 18 feet long, between D. H. Mingle's and Carolina Gobble's premises on Main street;

Stone Street crossing from W. R. Henney's to Rev. C. F. Deininger's property on Main Street.

Stone Street crossing, 49 feet long, from D. A. Musser's lot, corner of Penn and Mill street to Northeast corner of the Luth. church premises;

Log crossing, 98 feet long, at D. A. Musser's Cement and Stone Quarry on North Street.—D. A. Musser to pay $5.00 towards the construction of said crossing.

Boardwalk, 12 feet long, from Ilgen Musser's house to the bridge on Main Street and another boardwalk from said bridge to F. P. Musser's residence, 60 feet long;

Boardwalk from the terminus of Rev. C. F. Deininger's stone walk to the eastern corner of the U. B church lot and from the western corner of said lot to Michael Ulrich's pottery on Main Street, 560 feet long.

—J. H. B. Hartman, W. N. Auman, James D. Lose and others were engaged last week in planting shade trees along their premises. Streets lined with trees on each side lend as much beauty to a town as fine residences will, and reflect credit on the good taste of our citizens.

AN ACCIDENT.—On Monday evening of last week a two year old child of Mr. —— Houtz, residing about one-half mile north of Emanuel Harter's farm in Brushvalley, was hit on the head by a sharp stone, which had been slung with a hollow corn stalk by one of its larger brothers, while playing around the premises. The seemingly lifeless body of the little boy was picked up and carried into the house. A physician was immediately called, who late in the night discovered signs of life. The skull of the little sufferer is cracked and while still living at this writing, he to considered to be in a critical condition.

—A paying investment.—At this season of the year when your cows fail in milk, your horses become rough in coat, your pigs refuse to thrive, the hens won't lay as many eggs as they should, you will find a package or two of McDonald's Celebrated Tonic and Blood Purifying Horse and Cattle Powders judiciously administered an investment that will pay big dividends. They are positively the best Horse and Cattle Powders made. Dissatisfied buyers can have their money refunded. What other manufacturer dare make this offer. Sold by J. Eisenhuth, Millheim, Pa.

BURGLARY.—On Monday afternoon a boldfaced scoundrel entered the house of Mr. William Burrell, residing about one half mile northeast of Penn Hall, while the family were absent, and made away with two good watches, a plated chain and 25 cents in money—altogether amounting to about $25.00. When Mr. Burrell came home he discovered the door of the staircase leading to the upper rooms to be unlocked and wide open and suspecting something wrong, at once proceeded to search the house and found the articles mentioned missing. On Tuesday evening Mr. Burrell with his father, Mr. Gregg Burrell came to town in pursuit of the thief, having tracked him as far as Millheim. They describe him as a heavy-set man with red whiskers.

—Now that the sudden and violent changes of the weather occur every twenty four hours, almost everyone has a troublesome cold, which, if neglected may produce results that will trouble you for the remainder of your life. Dr. Kessler's Celebrated English Cough Medicine is especially deserving praise in this class of complaints. It never fails! It never disappoints! Instructions for treatment of croup and whooping cough also accompany each bottle. Every family especially where there is children should have a bottle. Dissatisfied buyers can have their money refunded. Sold by J. Eisenhuth, Millheim, Pa.

—I always keep your medicines in stock. Downs' Elixir is selling better than any Cough Medicine I have, and with good results.

C. M. Smith, Druggist Clarkston, Mich.

Dr. Baxter's Mandrake Bitters give the best satisfaction of any medicine I sell. They have advertised themselves, and I warrant every bottle.

N. DEKRIEE,
Druggist, Zeeland, Mich.

Henry & Johnson's Arnica and Oil Liniment, for external use is equally good.

For sale by H. H. TOMLINSON, Millheim, Pa.

—The Centre Democrat of last week furnishes the unpleasant news that the building of the Beech Creek and Bellefonte R. R. will have to be abandoned on account of the enormous amounts asked by the land owners along said line for damages. They swell to the high figure of $30,000 while only $10,000 are provided for. It states further that the Pennsylvania Railroad company will not build the Lemont branch, as they were only intending to build it in case the Reading & Vanderbilt combination came to Bellefonte.

All this puts a new face on the matter of our railroad and roughly awakens the people out of their sweet dreams of a finished road and pleasant rides to the county seat. But railroad reports have proved almost as unreliable as the weather this winter and spring and for all it looks a little cloudy now there may be sunshine again by next week.

WITHOUT A NEWSPAPER.—Nothing presents a sadder commentary upon the present condition of society than the large number of families, both in town and in the country, but more especially in the latter, that subscribe for no paper of any kind. Hundreds and thousands of families are thus growing up utterly ignorant of the mighty events of the day. But who can tell the vast amount of injury that is being inflicted on the rising generation—those who are to take our place in the world at no distant day—growing up without knowledge of the present or any study of the past, this ignorance, too, being imbued into them by the sanction of those who should, and doubtless do, know better did they only think of the injurious effects of their insane course. Let the head of every family think of this and place in the hands of those for whom he is responsible the means of acquiring some knowledge of the moving panorama in which we act our different parts.—Clinton Democrat.

—We met that tall and pleasant tree man, Mr. J. S. McCarger, from Clintondale in town the other day. He represents one of the best New York nurseries and will deliver a large lot of trees at Coburn to-morrow. We advise any one wishing to procure young plants or trees to apply to him as they will find it to their advantage. About a year ago Mr. McCarger presented us with a fine grapevine and told us at the time that we may look for grapes from it in the second season. We planted the vine last spring and were agreeably surprised by reaping two well-developed bunches of grapes the first season. We consider this to be a fair specimen of the kind of plants Mr. McCarger furnishes to his many customers in this section, and we find that his patrons are fully satisfied with the purchases they make of him.

Madisonburg Items.

The carpenters are about completing their work on Mr. Daniel Hoy's stable.

William Hazel's new summer house is nearly ready to move in.

Jacob W. Hazel has given up huckstering and devotes himself to farming for Andrew Shafer.

L. B. Stover intends putting a new floor and new counters in his store room.

Nevan Auman receives new goods every week, and has a splendid assortment.

Carpenters have commenced work on I. Wolf's new house. William Hazel bosses the work.

William Noll will put his crew of carpenters to work pretty soon.

Miss Ida Shafer has returned from her visit to Lock Haven and Williamsport, being none the worse for her trip.

Charley Grimm was in town on Saturday. Quite a stranger—call again.

Rev. P. C. Weidemyer has gone to Maryland on business.

A sly wedding—George and Rebecca. SHIN BONE.

Miscellaneous.

Two thousand emigrants arrived in New York the other day on two German steamers.

Suicide of a well-to-do Farmer Near Sunbury.

Special Dispatch to the Patriot.

SUNBURY, April, 22.—News was received here last night that Henry Suter, a well-to-do farmer residing up in the country some twelve miles, had committed suicide after attempting to kill his son and other members of the family, and after setting fire to his own house. Suter has been considered a crank for some time past, but his friends did not desire to restrain him for fear of getting his ill-will.

Holders of trade dollars who refused to give way to the panic last year will have reason to congratulate themselves on their steadiness if the bill for its retirement and recoinage becomes a law. This bill, which has passed the House and is awaiting the action of the Senate, is a substitue for nine other bills on the same subject. It provides that until June 1, 1886, trade dollars shall be received at their face value in payment for dues to the United States, and shall not again be paid out. Holders of trade dollars, on the presentation of the coin to any treasurer, will receive in exchange, dollar for dollar, standard silver dollars of the United States.

The dime novel and the toy pistol are twine evils by which youths are instructed in crime and furnished with means in practicing how to handle deadly weapons. The instruments of evil are peculiarly American in production and consumption. The European dynamiter and anarchist never had the schooling afforded by the dime novel. He is educated where the wrongs of generations stimulated him to attempt the righting of himself. The dime novel and the toy pistol are not weapons to vindicate wrong, but to gratify mischief, and mischief with the American is vital.

A Scranton, Pa., dispatch of the 14th says: W. S. Madden, a medical mountebank who treated in this city about six months ago, was arrested to-day upon complaint of Sadie McClenahan, of Lewistown. She first met Madden at Lewistown, where her mother lives. When Madden arrived in this city he sent a number of letters to Miss McClenahan, requesting her to come here and marry him. She reached Scranton February 20. Madden then told her that he had not yet secured a divorce from his wife, who was living at Altoona. Miss McClenahan requested to be allowed to go home, but Madden chained her to a bed in a room connected with his office. She escaped to-day and made her way to the Susquehanna House, where she told her story. Madden was arrested upon 14 charges of assault and battery, and was ordered to give bail in $800. He was unable to do so and went to the county jail.

Small-Pox in Shenandoah.

SHENANDOAH, April 17.—Sheanandoah was greatly excited this morning over the news that small-pox had broken out in Coal street in a family named Grant. A red flag was displayed. Later the Town Council received news of another case in a family of a widow, named Brennau, who lives but a few doors from the Grants. There are four cases in all. One death occured in the Grant family this afternoon.

ASHLAND, Pa., April 17.—Small-pox has apparently secured a firm hold in this county. There are at present 19 cases in this place and three cases were developed in Shenandoah to-day. At Centralia two cases were discovered in the Polish quarter, where the disease is at present confined.

AN EXTRAORDINARY OFFER.

To All Wanting Employment.

We want Live, Energetic an Capable Agents in every county in the United States and Canada, to sell a patent article of great merit, on its MERITS. An article having a large sale, paying over 100 per cent. profit, having no competition, and on which the agent is protected in the exclusive sale by a deed given for each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents, and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every houseowner, it might not be necessary to make an "EXTRAORDINARY OFFER" to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show, not only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but in its salability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $150 to $600 a month clear, and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business a thirty days' trial and fail to clear at least $100 in this time, ABOVE ALL EXPENSES can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent or General Agent who would like ten or more counties and work them through sub-agents for ninety days, and fail to clear at least $750 ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all unsold and get their money back. No other employer of agents ever dared to make such offers, nor would we if we did not know that we have agents now making more that double the amount we guaranteed, and but two sales a day would give a profit of over $125 a month, and that one of our agents took eight-ten orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully, and these we wish to send to every one out of employment who will send us three one-cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure the agency in time for the boom, and go to work on the terms named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents, sewing machine solicitors and carpenters in the country, and ask any reader of this paper who reads this offer, to send us at once the name and address of all such they know. Address at once, or you will loose the best chance ever offered to those out of employment to make money.

Developement of Forest Trees.

There exists a great diversity among trees in regard to their periods of developement; some have a brief rotation. The coppice growths in European forests are often utilized in periods of ten or fifteen years; in our own counrty too, we have many trees of short rotation, and some of the most useful and profitable trees are of this character. Dr. Wardner, of Ohio, in a paper on "Forestry," says:

The black locust may be harvested after it has grown from twenty to thirty years.

The catalpa speciosa in the same time will make good cross-ties and fence posts.

The ailantus very soen attains a useful size, and for certain purposes has been highly commended both in this country and in Europe. Prof. C. S. Sargeant is advising its extensive plantation, and some years ago it was spoken of as the most promising tree for the airid plains of the Southwest.

The forests of Scotch pine in Germany are allowed sixty years to reach their useful size for fuel and for timbers.

The birch there reaches its maturity in about half a century.

The willow used for charcoal needed in the manufacture of gunpowder may be cut after growing twenty years, or even less.

Chestnut, in its second growth, is most profitably cut every twenty or twenty-five years.

The beautiful wood of the wild cherry soon reaches a profitable size for many purposes, though for saw logs and lumber the tree should be larger.

A TRUE STORY.

'The Sheriff will be here to-morrow and everything we have will be swept away,' and he bowed his head in his hands and groaned aloud.

The patient little wife went softly to a bureau drawer, and taking therefrom $80,000 which she had saved from her household expenses, placed the package quietly at his feet.

Half an hour later the mortgage was paid off and the old man was around the corner playing seven-up for beer.

Woman's Work in a Mint.

Fifty females employed in the mint at San Francisco, are called adjusters, and their pay is $2.75 a day, counting week days, and all holidays but Sundays. Their hours are from eight o'clock in the morning, until four in the afternoon, with the exception of Saturdays, when they cease at two o'clock. These adjusters occupy two large rooms on the second floor of the mint. One is used for the adjusting of silver, and the other for that of gold. The floors are carpeted, and each lady has a marble-top table, a pair of scales, and a fine, delicate file. Before the gold is turned over to them to be adjusted, it goes through the process of being rolled, annealed, cut and washed. Then they take it in a state called "blanks," that is, perfectly smooth, and the weighing is done. It is weighed to see if each piece be of standard weight, which must be 412½ grains for a silver dollar, a slight discrepancy being allowed on either side. If a coin is found outside of the limit after being weighed by an adjuster, it is returned; if too light, it is condemned, and must be remelted; if too heavy, it is filled to its proper weight.

This is the ladies' work, and an interesting sight it is to watch the small, white fingers deftly handling the shining pieces. A room near the adjusting room has been set aside for the ladies, who use it as a lunch room; two long tables are provided, and a janitress furnishes boiling water for making tea, and also keeps the place neat and clean. Several of the ladies have been in the mint for many years.

A STORY WITH A MORAL.

'Is the editor in? I want to whip him,' said an applicant at the counting room.

'Yes, sir, up six fligh ts, front room.'

'Is there an elevator?'

'No, sir.'

'Then I guess I won't go up. I don't want to meet him all tired out.'

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. MRS WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

'Yes, Augustus, I love you. Now you must go and see father.' 'No, dovie, not yet; that is father than I want to go just at present.'

DELAWARE RIVER CHEMICAL WORKS, BAUGH & SONS,

Philadelphia, Feb. 1, 1884.

To Farmers of Pennsylvania:

Gentlemen:—For over twenty-eight years we have manufactured Raw-Bone Phosphates, and our brands have become household words in nearly every section of the country. In many communities the demand for them has increased, while in others the sales have declined, on account of the preference for lower-priced goods. Six years ago finding that the demand for goods of lower cost had become almost universal, and having peculiar advantages of raw materials and manufacturing facilities, we determined to meet this demand, and introduced a TWENTY-FIVE DOLLAR PHOSPHATE, made by a NEW PROCESS EXCLUSIVELY OUR OWN. The quickness with which this Phosphate sprang into use among intelligent farmers will be shown by the following statement:

Of the $25 Phosphate there were sold

During 1879,	1,287	Tons.
" 1880,	3,957	"
" 1881,	5,147	"
" 1882,	8,288	"
" 1883,	10,128	"

The reports of the action of the $25 Phosphate have been satisfactory in every case from a wide inquiry. We want to be informed upon this point very plainly, as it is our interest to know if the article continues to produce good results. We will thank any farmer, having used the $25 Phosphate with disappointing results, to let us hear from him with full facts.

Yours truly,

ELIXIR

For the cure of

Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Croup, Asthma, Pleurisy, Hoarseness, Influenza, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis, and all diseases of the Throat, Chest, and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir is used its efficacy is at once manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—At its commencement it is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the Lungs; then an inflamation, when the cough is rather dry, local fever, and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflamation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration.

It heals the ulcerated surfaces and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the CAUSE, consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. DR. JOHN BULL'S

Smith's Tonic Syrup

FEVER and AGUE

Or CHILLS and FEVER,

AND ALL MALARIAL DISEASES.

The proprietor of this celebrated medicine justly claims for it a superiority over all remedies ever offered to the public for the SAFE, CERTAIN, SPEEDY and PERMANENT cure of Ague and Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the entire Western and Southern country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion that in no case whatever will it fail to cure if the directions are strictly followed and carried out. In a great many cases a single dose has been sufficient for a cure, and whole families have been cured by a single bottle, with a perfect restoration of the general health. It is, however, prudent, and in every case more certain to cure, if its use is continued in smaller doses for a week or two after the disease has been checked, more especially in difficult and long-standing cases. Usually this medicine will not require any aid to keep the bowels in good order. Should the patient, however, require a cathartic medicine, after having taken three or four doses of the Tonic, a single dose of BULL'S VEGETABLE FAMILY PILLS will be sufficient.

BULL'S SARSAPARILLA is the old and reliable remedy for impurities of the blood and Scrofulous affections—the King of Blood Purifiers.

DR. JOHN BULL'S VEGETABLE WORM DESTROYER is prepared in the form of candy drops, attractive to the sight and pleasant to the taste.
